We left at 11:00 a.m. for Bellefield's in Prince George County. Janie Begg joined us on the way, and Mr. and Mrs. Bowling took us through their house. It is beautiful on the outside -- built about 1735 -- but plain and badly restored as to interior. They are asking $115,000 for it with about 180 acres, and good farm buildings.

We decided not to make an offer on it, but I did tell Janie I would consider repurchasing His Lordship's Kindness.

Got back for a late lunch with the kids, during which Mr. Tarry and William Tarry arrived from Staunton Hill. A freshet was in course when he left there this morning. We discussed ways of running the place more economically.

After the Tarrys left I went to see Allen Dulles. His son was there, better than I expected, although stone deaf in one ear, his memory impaired, eyesight restricted, and head still bandaged. Fine young man.

E and I went to the Ellistons' to say good-bye and then home to drink, eat and pack.
